Student mobility

Our students benefit from international mobility programmes (Bachelor and Master), notably at the University Panthéon-Sorbonne Paris 1. The duration of these programmes varies between six months and one year. This mobility allows them

- to consolidate their training and develop their personalities,
- to live intercultural experiences
- to put their theoretical and practical skills into practice through internships in companies.

Activities

Each academic year, our Institute organises an international symposium on a topical issue in relation to scientific research and professional practice. The symposium of 25 June 2019, for example, was about "The Law of Bankrupt Companies". Moreover, our Institute actively participates in the university's THINK THANK seminars through reflection work, as well as through the organisation of study days, such as the one on "The Territoriality of Public Action: Rethinking Governance Through the Prism of the Local" held on 28 January 2020.

Mission

The Institute of Legal and Political Sciences was created within the framework of a partnership signed between the Euro-Mediterranean University of Fez and the University Panthéon-Sorbonne Paris 1. Its mission is to provide students with a multidisciplinary training allowing them to develop their knowledge in political science, law, economics, international relations. The courses are organised in two cycles which lead to various possibilities of registration for a doctorate. At the end of the Bachelor's degree course, the student can obtain a double degree, that of EUROMED and that of the University of Panthéon-Sorbonne Paris1. This is also the case at the end of the second year of the Master in Business and Financial Law. The interdisciplinary study programmes within the Institute also aim, in addition to the skills indicated, to give the student a base of knowledge and know-how that consolidates his critical thinking, soft skills and entrepreneurial abilities.
